

Cindy Jacobs Prophecies: The Lord Says He's Coming With a Wave of Glory

The Lord says, "I'm coming with a wave of my glory." What does that mean? That many people that feel dry—you feel like you're almost going through the motions, with your life, with the Lord; it doesn't feel fresh and new to you. This is what is happening: There is a move of the Holy Spirit that is here and coming. I was just ministering at Christ For The Nations this week, and the glory of God fell.

And the Lord says, "You're going to move from the mundane to the glorious. I want you to walk in a triumphant life ... where you don't go on just with business as usual." The Lord says, "There will not be business as usual. I am coming to visit. I'm coming to visit your home. I'm coming to visit your emotions. I'm coming to visit your success and enter into it. And people will say to you, 'What is it that's different?' And you might just have to smile, and say, 'Well, God is doing great things.' But you know that you have entered into a new place in me, a new place where it doesn't seem old, and it doesn't seem like you're just going through a routine, and a life of Christianity, but that you have an intimate relationship with me. I want you to go from the 'Where is God?' to 'Wow, God is here.'" And the Lord says, "I'm going to do it. Get ready for it. Say, 'I want it,' press in, and surely you will see that glory explosion happen in your life." {eoa}
