

Does What You Believe About Death Align With the Bible?

Over the past 12 months, our world has faced the reality of death in a whole new way.

The possibility of an unseen, unknown virus robbing us of our life only added to our already present fears of murder, cancer and car accidents.

And because of this, many of us are overwhelmed with this question: "What would happen to me if I died?"

Will there be a bright light? Will we meet Jesus? See loved ones? Or could we experience something unspeakable?

Pastor and bestselling author John Burke decided to interview over 1,000 people who had a near death experience. His results were not only shocking, but they reveal to us some of the facts that we can know about the afterlife. What each and every one of those people experienced lines up with exactly what we read about in the Bible about life after death.

We talk about many of these near death experience stories and discuss the facts that we know to be true about the afterlife in our recent episode of the Leading Simple podcast on the Charisma Podcast Network.

Now, after you listen to that episode, odds are that you will still have some questions that you'd love for John Burke to answer. So, we are going to do a follow-up to this podcast episode, where I'll ask him your questions. Just send them to me at rgeorge@, or message me on my Instagram. {eoa}
