

Former '700 Club' Host Ben Kinchlow Dies

Ben Kinchlow—evangelist and former host of The 700 Club—died Thursday at the age of 82.

CBN posted a tribute to Kinchlow, saying he worked for the Christian media company for 20 years and loved interacting with his fellow hosts.

Kinchlow's Facebook page posted CBN's tribute and added this note:

The passing of a titan. Thank you for your prayers and letters. As Harvey "Big Ben" laid in the hospital early this morning some of his family read the letters you graciously sent to him via the previous Facebook request. On behalf of the family, thank you. More information coming soon if you would like to help.

Just a day before Kinchlow's death, a prayer alert went out to his Facebook followers, asking for emergency prayer.
