

Francis Chan: Our Movement Will Die Unless We Do This One Thing

Francis Chan didn't plan to talk about this. But in the middle of his sermon, he feels compelled to bring up the next generation—and how their maturing process is being held back by the current generation. He says this failure is “killing the church” and explains how we can reverse course.