

From Transgender to Transformed: How the Holy Spirit Broke the LGBT Lies That Bound This Man

Jeffrey McCall is on the front lines of spiritual warfare, preaching freedom and restoration for people bound up in lies about their identity.

He founded the Freedom March movement, which gathers people who have left exchanged their LGBT chains for the peace of Christ and march in cities around the country to tell people that hope is possible. He also leads For Such a Time Ministry.

McCall knows firsthand how painful the bondage can be.

Though he grew up in church, McCall left the faith of his family for drugs and homosexuality. Eventually, he changed gender.

"The enemy started attacking me with the feelings, saying, '[You've] always felt more like a woman, maybe [you were] born in the wrong body. Maybe you were supposed to be a woman, but you were born as a male,'" McCall says.

But just before a surgeon permanently altered his body, McCall says he had a radical supernatural experience that changed his life.
