

Hold Fast to These Reminders When It Feels Like God Is Silent

There are times in my life when it seems like God is silent when I need Him most. In these difficult moments, we find ourselves struggling. We don't want to do the wrong thing but feel like God is not helping us get through the situation. It may feel like abandonment, but it's not. These are the times when our faith is challenged and put to work on a deeper level. In this episode of The Power of Intimacy With Christ on the Charisma Podcast Network, I will share how to survive these moments and seasons and how to hold on to your faith while continuing to thrive in God. You will take away some tactics for deepening your faith and love for God when you can't feel Him nearby. I will also share some wisdom nuggets on how to force your faith forward while defeating the fear that attempts to capture your thoughts.

I know that relationship with God empowers the whole life and provides a solid foundation for understanding and successfully possessing the promises of biblical text. Relationship with God is necessary to experience ultimate access to the resources of God for healthy intellectual poise, leading a victorious relational life and all that concerns us as believers in Christ (see 3 John 1:1-3).

An open and intentional effort to discern God's voice leads to the abundant life in Christ. For additional information on this topic, check out my article: "Defeating Fear." Also, be sure to listen to this episode of The Power of Intimacy With Christ. {eo}
