

How a Pro-Choice Protester Inspired the 'Next Frontier of the Pro-Life Movement'

Pastor Randy Bohlander received a convicting challenge from an unlikely source: a pro-choice protester. While engaging in a silent pro-life protest, Bohlander heard someone shout, "What are you going to do if suddenly you overturn Roe v. Wade? You don't want these babies any more than these mothers do." He realized the protester had a good point, thought about it and then took a radical next step. Bohlander says, "Friends, the word of the Lord to the church over the unborn in America is 'If you want them, go get them.'"
