

How Christians Should Respond to Political Unrest and Corruption

Many people still feel an overwhelming sense of uncertainty following the election. There is an atmosphere of unrest, complacency and even deception moving through the nation. There is no denying the corruption and inconsistency prevalent in our political arena. How should a Christian respond?

If you are a Christian, your response should be to pray as never before. Believers must live by a higher standard. We must search for and obey God's Word. We must examine ourselves, repent and pray. We must call on the Lord God Almighty to expose darkness, ruin evil plans and bring justice quickly.
