

How God Led the Casting Process for This New TV Series About Jesus

Dallas Jenkins, director of the new Bible TV series The Chosen, says God guided the series' casting process during an interview with Movieguide®.

Jenkins says, "When we were casting, the cool thing was is that—each cast member—like I wasn't able to screw it up. Because the choice was so obvious. There was one person for each part. God made it abundantly clear, and so I couldn't get in the way and let my own perceived wisdom get in the way of who God wanted for each of these roles."

Click the video to watch the full interview, and listen to the podcast for another interview.