

How Kim Clement Prophesied This Particular Moment of the Trump Presidency

Musical prophet Kim Clement may have prophesied a conservative Supreme Court takeover through Donald Trump's presidency, among other major current events happening right now.

“‘My people have cried out for an answer, and this is what I have to say,’ says the Spirit of life,” Clement says in a prophecy dated 2014.

“‘A veil has been placed upon this nation, and I did it. I did it so that for a season My people would wonder and faith would increase, for in darkness faith grows. In despair, faith grows. I did it. But now My fury has ended,’” Clement prophesied.

Clement then spoke of a man who very well could be Donald Trump as well as about Russia, Ukraine and more.

Take a look.