

I Am Raising You Above Your Confusion!

Editor's Note: Below is a prophecy Chuck Pierce received as he sought the Lord in prayer during the first week of September.

The Lord is saying: "There is a wind that is beginning to  blow the dust from your shelf. You are being called and will be sent forward again.

"There will be fastings in this next season that you didn't experience in the last season. But the fastings will be for the enlargement of your territory.

"I am beginning to amass My people and join them together in troops. They will be land- and structure-changers. They will find and release those [who] were held captive by old ruling systems and release them to be restored. Many of these captives will be the leaders of My armies in days ahead.

"I am beginning to move on those people [who] have not known angelic intervention, and they will know angelic intervention.

"I am beginning to blow again, and some will say, 'I must leave the mixed structure of my old Jerusalem, the place of my beginning, [which] was mixed with sorrow and religion. I must come to Antioch, be renewed, and [be] sent from there into where I need to go in the future.' At this time, I am ordering the way for you to leave, be sent, return new, and complete what was not completed in the last season. I will come now and use what you have seen in your past as a pattern to propel you past the enemy and into the future.

"Look around you. Things might seem to be the same, but I have positioned you high on the mountain, and even the place that looks familiar no longer is familiar to you! I have raised you up to give you a vision of what I would do to bring down, build up and recreate your destiny that is waiting for you. The heavens are opening up over you and if you will 'see,' I will use you to create the new.

"Hear the sounds of confusion that were confusing you. I have lifted you above that confused fray! I will cleanse and redirect My purposes in you. I've lifted you above confused noise and structures that would have held you captive.

"Sound has movement, and confused sounds were moving around you. I will show you new ways to overrule the enemy, and then you will descend as I send you back into the confused noise of the world that you once knew. You will be like a battle axe that has been anointed to cut through and form a path in the midst [of] the enemy's territory.

"I've been disciplining and training you in new ways. You will be My engineer of a new highway. You will engineer the way ahead. You will move ahead in a new way. ... You will begin to set an order that hasn't been set. You will begin to be the engineer and know how things are measured and lined out for the future.

"But you'll say, 'I don't feel trained.' But I will train you as I give you one piece at a time. I will cause you to engineer a new way. I have a heavenly release that I am bringing down upon you, and from the heavenly sound you will re-engineer the highways through the confusion in the earth realm.

"I've had to pluck the very depths of your soul. I've had to create a sound in your soul that you didn't even know was there. I've had to pull your personality from deep within you because the sounds of the world had captured My sound in you and diverted your personality.

"I have settled you so your impatience that was linked with the cares of the world would not rule your soul. I have formed a Rest Center on your behalf so you could gain a strategy to move through the dark night of your soul and into day.

“I’ve brought a new assignment to your life that will cause your personality to shine in Me. I have plucked the sound of your soul and caused your heart to create a sound that will express My heart. Now your soul will resound with Me.”
