

In This Country, Being Christian Means Every Day Is a Fight to Survive

In Niger, Christians' lives are at risk every day. Ten percent of the churches were burned down in January 2015. But instead of ending the church, the arsonists only succeeded in making the church stronger than ever. Samaritan's Purse offers this firsthand look at Niger's persecuted Christian community.