

Is This Trendy Neon Music Video the Future of Christian Worship?

Christian pop band Stars Go Dim says it looks to God for every major decision in the new music video for “I Look to You.” But the song’s method of expressing this prayer life may surprise many Christian radio listeners. The song’s cool R&B beat, club synths, sleek vocals and even guest rap appearances by Social Club Misfits make “I Look to You” a very different kind of worship song. How do you like it? Let us know in the comments.