

John Paul Jackson's Protege Interprets Little Girl's Prophetic Dream of Chick-Fil-A

John E. Thomas, the president of Streams Ministries who was trained by the late John Paul Jackson, recently hosted an episode of "Dream Lab: Kids Edition," in which he trains people to interpret dreams, using young children's dreams as case studies. On the most recent episode, a young girl named Abigail told Thomas she had a dream about Chick-Fil-A. In this dream, her sister would go to Chick-Fil-A but Abigail wasn't allowed to. She was eventually told after a week that she could go, but then she woke up and the dream ended.

Sound like unlikely starting material for a prophetic dream? Thomas says this dream is about God's timing, intercession and blessings to come. How did he arrive at that conclusion? Watch the video to see the interpretation process for yourself.
