

Jonathan Cahn of 'The Harbinger II: The Return' Answers the Questions 'Where Are We Now? What Lies Ahead for America?'

A lot of believers are confused, discouraged, angry and fearful. When it comes to political America, they are asking what happened, where we are now and what is ahead. In a recent video message, Jonathan Cahn, known worldwide as the creator of one of the year's biggest publishing successes, The Harbinger II: The Return, speaks to believers and answers those questions.

"We have had four years of a conservative administration," said Cahn. "We have had a president whose policies were the most pro-life in history. President Trump stood against the killing of the unborn, for religious liberty, for Christian education. He appointed judges and Supreme Court justices who would be more likely to stand for biblical and traditional values. He opened the door for Christian ministers and leaders to give him counsel. He stood strongly for the nation of Israel by policy—he was the most pro-Israel president in history.

"President Trump became the first world leader since ancient times to recognize Jerusalem as the capital of Israel," Cahn said. "He, along with the Republicans in Congress, sought to hold back a flood of anti-biblical legislation and movements from overtaking America."

But now where are we? What do we do? Cahn said, "There are those who say that believers should have nothing to do with the government or politics. On the other hand, there are those who act like the political realm is our ultimate realm and our ultimate fight even if it means calling for an American Civil War. Both are wrong. Messiah said you are the light of the world. The light has to shine. It has to affect and impact the world around it. As the light of God, we are to address, touch, affect and impact every realm—and that includes cultural and political realms.

“We should do everything we can to shine the light of God on the political realm,” he said. “But there is a balance. Messiah also said that we are in the world but not of the world. And he said, ‘My kingdom is not of this world.’ We have to remember the fact that this world is neither our home nor our kingdom. We are to touch and minister to this world but remember that we are not of it. We are of a different and higher kingdom—a higher cause, a higher fight, a higher purpose, a higher mission.”

Cahn explained that believers have to come back to their first love: God.

“We should support whatever will support the ends of God,” Cahn said. “But no earthly agenda or kingdom or government or person is that and we are to pray for and fight for God’s purposes. After all is said and done, we have to remember that His ways are higher than ours, no matter who it is that sits in the White House in our nation’s capital—the most important thing is Who sits on the throne of heaven.”

In his book, The Paradigm, Cahn spoke of Donald Trump as Jehu. “Jehu was a wild, impulsive man and a fighter. But he was raised by God to be used to oppose an ungodly administration and anti-God government. But if you read The Paradigm, you will also see that Jehu was not the answer. And there were warnings given. He was used in what could have been the answer. His reign was a reprieve, a window of time in which revival could have come. But as far as we know, revival never

In The Harbinger II, Cahn wrote, “In these past four years, with all the victories in the political realm, we have not seen a parallel victory in the realm of revival of America as a nation. It hasn’t moved closer to God as a nation. It has moved farther away: spiritually, culturally, morally. America has continued its race to judgment. The window is not the answer. But it is the means to an answer. The window is given for revival. Without revival, without returning to God, America is lost.”

And now, according to Cahn, the political realm is set to coalesce—to converge with those spiritual, cultural, social and moral forces that are seeking to seal America’s fall from God. Cahn points out to the very present danger that now threatens the free exercise of faith, religious liberty, ministry, the right of parents to determine the upbringing of their children, the right to life, the right of conscience and the future of America itself. Cahn shares what can address that threat: from the stand and prayers of God’s people and the hand of God. Pivotal as well will be the coming election in the state of Georgia.

“Pray for those two Senate races,” Cahn said. “The only thing in the political realm that can and will hold back the radical agenda are the two Senate votes in Georgia. If the Republicans lose these two seats, they will lose the Senate and that is the entire government. Pray as fervently for the will and hands of God. If you live in the state of Georgia, pray as never before and vote.”

In The Harbinger, Cahn wrote of the biblical template of national judgment. It was that template that lead Cahn to watch and mark the year 2020 as the year of potential great shakings. That led him to set The Harbinger II to be published in the same year, 2020.

"We are there," Cahn said. "What lies ahead? We will either see continued shakings and judgment and America's decline and ultimate fall, or the sealing of America's apostasy and the coming of persecution. And it can be that both of these things will take place at the same time.

"What is the only good scenario for America?" he asked. "There's only one. Revival. Revival can only begin with that one thing: repentance. The people of God can lead in revival. We must each commit to praying for revival as never before. But not only praying for revival, but actually to begin to live in true revival.

"Remember who you are," Cahn said. "You are the light of this world. You don't fear the darkness. You don't hide from the darkness. You don't give into the darkness. You shine your light into the darkness, and you overcome the darkness. And if the dark gets darker, that's your cue that it is time as the light of God to shine even more brightly, even more strong, more uncompromised, more pure, more bold and more revolutionary. The darkness cannot stop the light if that light will shine. The darkness will only magnify the light. It may be more challenging to shine, but the light that shines in the darkness is the light that lights up the world.

"Stand strong. Stand tall. Stand victorious," Cahn said. "For the Lord says to you, 'Darkness will cover the nations. And the Lord will rise upon you. So arise and shine, for your light has come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon you in the name of Jesus, the anointed one, the King of kings, the Lord of lords, the light of the world and the Lion of the tribe of Judah.'"
