In a message by Rabbi Jonathan Cahn, Cahn urges believers to see the wonder of what it means to be one of God's children.

"God did reveal that the gospel had to go to the Gentiles," Cahn says. "Messiah said [it] had to go to all peoples, and He didn't say anything about circumcision. He said, 'Go make disciples of all nations.'"

Cahn points out that believers in Christ Jesus, we are called to enter a new life with the Lord. Just as God counts our sins as far as the east is from the west, we are not to dwell on the former things.

"If God doesn't dwell on something, and He doesn't dwell on something in the New Testament, new covenant Scriptures, then you don't either," says Cahn. "If God's not dwelling on it in our salvation, you don't dwell on it."

As Christians, it doesn't matter what kinds of circumstances come our way; as long as we are holding on by God's thread, the thread that can never be broken, He will lead us and guide us exactly as He desires for His glory.
