

Lauren Daigle's Live 'Tremble' Releases Ahead of World Tour

She's wowed audiences everywhere, including on NBC's hit TV show The Voice, with her unique brand of soulful pop and such megahits as "You Say" and "Trust in You."

Now, multiplatinum-selling and two-time Grammy Award-winning artist Lauren Daigle has released a hit her fans have loved for years. A live version of her popular song "Tremble" dropped for streaming this past Friday along with this live video performance of "Tremble" at the Greek Theatre in Los Angeles, California, during her Look Up Child tour.

"I've been performing 'Tremble' for a few years now, holding on until the right moment to share it with everyone," Daigle says, per the . "I've always had a special connection with this song and have loved seeing the audience reaction every night. I cannot wait to get back to performing it this fall!"

The song's lyrics point to the holiness and majesty of the God Daigle serves:

I will tremble at no other name/ My heart's surrendered to no other reign.

I will bow at no other throne/ Rest my heart at no other home.

Let these hands lift no other crown/ Let these knees fall on no other ground.

Draw these eyes from the gold that won't shine/ You turn this life from water into wine.

Catch the entire performance here, and check out this link for news of Daigle's upcoming world tour, which kicks off Sept. 24 in Fort Wayne, Indiana.

Read articles like this one and other Spirit-led content in our new platform, CHARISMA PLUS.