

Lead Singer of 'Jesus Christ Superstar' Jeff Fenholt Dies at 68

Jeff Fenholt, lead singer in the original Broadway production Jesus Christ Superstar, died Tuesday. He was 68 years old.

His son, Pastor Tristan Fenholt, posted the news of his father's death on Facebook.

"Yesterday, my dad—Jeff Fenholt—went home to be with the Lord," he wrote. "Like all of us, he was not a perfect man, but he knew the perfect Savior (Jesus), and loved to share the gospel with as many people as possible. His music and ministry literally touched the lives of hundreds of thousands of people. He truly loved the Lord... and still does. I love you and miss you, Dad! 9/15/1950 – 9/10/2019"

In his post, Tristan included an old video of his father singing in church. Watch it in this article.