

Ministers Are Quitting Every Day—But That Doesn't Have to Happen to You!

If you're a pastor or minister who's feeling burnt out, this is the video for you. In this short clip, Andrew Wommack, founder of Andrew Wommack Ministries and Charis Bible College, delivers an encouraging message to everyone in full-time ministry. By joining an association of like-minded ministers, you can become involved with others who face the same challenges, victories, and losses you. Wommack is the founder of the Association of Related Ministries International (ARMI), which was created specifically for pastors or anyone in full-time ministry. God never intended you to go it alone. This year's ARMI conference will take place March 26-28 at Charis Bible College in Woodland Park, CO. To learn more, click here.