5 Key Signs to Identifying a Christian Narcissist

Narcissism can be challenging to identify, especially when cloaked in Christian language and behaviors.

Kris Reece, a Christian life coach and author, recently shared insights into identifying "Christian narcissists," individuals who use their faith to manipulate and control others. In one of her recent videos, Reece outlines five key traits to watch for, offering guidance rooted in biblical teachings.

1. Lack of True Emotional Intimacy

Reece warns that Christian narcissists struggle with genuine emotional connections. "Trying to connect emotionally with a narcissist is like watering a plastic plant; no matter how much you pour, it'll never grow," she says. This mirrors the Bible's call for genuine love, as seen in Romans 12:9, "Love must be sincere. Hate what is evil; cling to what is good."

Deceived by Demons

So many people believe that hell, Satan and demons are just a joke or fantasy. They base their belief on the lies they have heard taught by other deceived people or on their feelings.

The Bible tells us Satan deceives unbelievers. Are you one of the deceived? Satan, who is the god of this world, “has blinded the minds of those who do not believe” (2 Cor. 4:4b). And Revelation 12:9 (NKJV) says, “So the great dragon was cast out, that serpent of old, called the Devil and Satan, who deceives the whole world; he was cast to the earth, and his angels were cast out with him.”

If you continue to believe hell and demons are fake, then you are saying Jesus Christ is a liar. Jesus said the devil is real. “If Satan casts out Satan, he is divided against himself. How then will his kingdom stand?” (Matt. 12:26).
