

Pastor Lovingly Rebukes This Type of Church. Do You Agree?

Pastor Shane Idleman recently called out large churches that are more concerned with pleasing the congregation than challenging them. In the clip, Idleman tells his congregation, "I love some of these guys on the radio and these megachurch pastors, bless their heart, but they're never pointing people to the cross. They want to be motivational but not convicting. They want to tickle the ear but not challenge the heart. They don't want to offend, yet they're offending Christ." Watch it here.
