

Perry Stone: The Importance of Prophecy

In the last five years, people have begun to see more and more in the Spirit and are opening up to prophecy, Perry Stone says. Those leading this charge include women, young people and children. And yet, some congregations still shy away.

“A lot of times in churches, they are so careful to not offend,” Stone tells The Jim Bakker Show. “But in reality, I think that if they would preach under an anointing, there’s always going to be people that don’t like it, but God always replaces people who leave you with more people because you are faithful to Him.”

Prophecy is a key part of that anointing. Take a look.
