

Prophecy: 2 Sets of Christians Are About to Cross Over Into a New Season

The other day while I was driving in my car, Holy Spirit spoke to me and said, "Momentum is building again."

I've sensed over the past few weeks that many people in the body of Christ have seen areas in their lives where it's seemed like their progress has stalled and their strength has weakened. There's been a complete reliance upon the Lord regarding obstacles in the roadway of their destinies, where assigned adversity has afforded the people of God new levels of faith and a new resilience for the long haul. Where many believers have found themselves growing weary with the pace of their race, I saw the Lord sending times of refreshing to restore discouragement, hope deferred and unexpected delay.

Who Is Crossing Over?

Holy Spirit showed me two sets of people in the body of Christ who were preparing to cross over into their new season. There was one group of people who God had opened new doors of access to because they were ready and prepared to go to next-level assignments in their authority, gifting and anointing. Then there was a second set of people who were being refined in the fire for carrying new power, new realms of glory and a greater measure of faith to heal the sick, set the captives free and walk in new dimensions of miracles, signs and wonders like never before.

Both groups of people endured the threshing floor of preparation for carrying the fresh oil needed at this hour. These ones paid the price, endured the cost and surrendered their all while passing through the narrow place of transition. The mountaintop has positioned you, and the valley floor has anointed you.

I hear the Spirit of God say, "It's not by might nor by power but by My Spirit that these ones have been raised up and brought to the forefront at this time. Make no mistake about it, I have chosen the time and the season where the momentum of their days would meet with the fruit being manifested through the fulfillment of My promises. This is not an hour to shrink back and despair. This is an hour of new power to be demonstrated through My servants, the prophets."

Convergence: Where the Training Ground of the Past Meets Destiny

There's a convergence happening in the body of Christ at this hour where our training ground from the past has positioned us for what we were created and formed to do by the hand of God from conception. A merging of where many have been and where it's been prophesied that many are going is creating an atmosphere conducive to the winds of momentum, ushering the saints of God into higher and weightier realms of glory.

I see a thrust of God-ordained promises beginning to explode in the spiritual realm to lift the saints of God into kairos moments orchestrated by the hand of the Lord.

The Lilies of the Field

The other morning I heard the Spirit of God say, "Watch Me move amongst the lilies of the field to array My sovereignty upon you in all its splendor."

The lilies of the field are mentioned in Matthew 6:28 as a place where the glory of God dwells without effort or striving. When the sovereignty of God comes upon us, His supreme power, authority and attributes rain down and rule in our midst.

Ride with the Wind!

We are entering realms of glory as sons and daughters of God to blow the lid off any other move of God that's come before us. The Spirit of God is roaming the earth and marking the pure in heart who are spotless and blameless in the eyes of Father.

While the church is being purged of perversion, sin and gross compromise, a remnant of Holy Ghost glory-carrying, authority-wielding vessels of power is beginning to emerge for such a time as this!

A new momentum is building at this hour! Ride with the wind! God has positioned you for such a time as this.

"See, I will do a new thing, now it shall spring forth; shall you not be aware of it?" (Isa. 43:19a). {eo}
