

Prophetic Word: The Terrace Church Is Here

A prophetic word I was given on May 21, 2020, is already starting to come to pass. This is so encouraging for the church!

I was about to fall asleep when I heard, "The Terrace." I woke the next day only to find out that a new TV outdoor system was released on May 21 (the same day I heard it) called "The Terrace." I knew God was confirming His word to me. Terrace means "A level paved area or platform next to a building; a patio or veranda."

The time of the terrace has come. The church has moved outside the building, and is meeting on the land. I see this as a prophetic picture for the whole body of Christ.

God has prepared us for this moment. Things are not as they were and we have come to adapt to a "new normal." But something is happening behind the scenes. God is taking the ground we think we have lost inside our church buildings and He's flipping it all around.

What may have been inconvenient for many in this season will serve to become a place of refreshment and rest. That's what people receive while sitting in a terrace.

We have been pushed into the open air, out of our dimly lit buildings into the glorious light of the sun. We take a big breath as we realize all is not lost but only the end of a chapter. We turn the page and find that the journey continues only in a new setting. This is where we are now, in a new setting—churches meeting outside.

We have moved to the terrace. A place where fresh air makes us come alive, and the light gives us clear vision. Our bodies and spirits were born for this, and it feels so right. The terrace is a place where people come together, rest, laugh and make memories. It's where the bond of unity is made between parents and children as they fellowship at the end of a long day. The terrace is family.

And so, here we are, the church, gathering outside on the terrace. I believe we will see this become a new normal but only for a time.

Churches will design and build beautiful terraces to gather in the coming days and months to accommodate for the times in which we live. I believe it will bring the most glorious unity and love that we have so yearned for and unfortunately forgotten in many days past.

And it won't stop there. We will continue to take to the world what we have received in the terrace, and then we will invite them to this supernatural terrace of God only found within Christ. The church is the terrace of the earth. The church is the terrace of heaven and the church is the terrace for the lost.

God spoke to me and showed me a vision of a beautiful terrace. I immediately listened as He unfolded this beautiful word to me. The church has become a terrace—in the physical and, of course, in the spiritual—a much-needed place to rest and become united as the family of God. The world will come to the terrace and put to rest their old ways. They will find the truth and love they have searched for. They will find Christ and come home.

I believe the prophetic word I was given about the "Terrace Church" on May 21 is beginning to come to pass. Many churches we will be meeting outside as well on Sunday mornings starting this Sunday, which is Pentecost.

I've now had people sending me messages that their pastors have just declared they will have services outside. I'm honored that the Lord has shared His heart with me on this.
