

Ravi Zacharias Brilliantly Refutes Skeptic Who Says the Bible Isn't Necessary to Be Good

A skeptic asserts to Ravi Zacharias that the Bible and Christianity aren't necessary to be moral, since non-Christians people don't run around constantly committing crimes. Zacharias answers his question with another question: "Do you lock your door at night?" The exchange, which has been excerpted into viral clips across the Internet, can be seen in its original form here.