

When You No Longer Love Your Husband

Are there times in your marriage when you've contemplated leaving because your husband is uncaring and inattentive to your needs? It's easy to convince yourself that the proverbial grass is greener on the other side. But is it? Every marriage can be trying at times, and you may have reached a point of questioning whether you love your husband anymore. But God's grace is sufficient to sustain you in every difficult situation. It's better to weather marital storms than it is to bail. To discover why, click below to watch video.
