

Shocking Story of the Woman Who Tried to Seduce Jonathan Cahn

Temptation is one of life's inevitable tests. But as believers, we are not left defenseless. In a shocking video, Jonathan Cahn shared a powerful personal example of this principle in action.

Early in his walk with God, he was leading a Bible study when a woman called, claiming she was about to commit suicide. When Cahn arrived, he quickly realized there was no immediate danger. The woman had set up an elaborate ruse, dressing up and putting out refreshments for him while playing a video about the story of Joseph and Potiphar's wife as a twisted visual metaphor to tempt him.

It was a moment fraught with danger. Cahn recognized immediately that this was a spiritual test—a situation where his response would determine whether he passed or failed. Rather than rationalizing or hesitating, he identified his way of escape: the door. “I’m leaving. I’m getting out of here,” he recalls thinking. Despite the woman’s resistance, Cahn acted decisively and removed himself from the situation. This was his God-provided escape, a tangible example of how divine guidance enables believers to endure temptation without succumbing.
