

Sign of the Times? ESPN Endorses Ancient Spirit Drug

ESPN, the leading multinational multimedia sports entertainment organization, recently interviewed Mike Tyson about his psychedelic trip on DMT. Yes, you read that right. The sports channel is now talking about drugs in a positive manner?

DMT, whether it is smoked or drunk through “ayahuasca,” is likely the spirit drug the fallen angels in Genesis 6 taught man to consume. Every year, millions of young people in America are consuming this ancient spirit drug that is vastly different than any other psychedelic known to man.

So why is it resurfacing now? Could it be connected to Jesus' words when he said, “As it was in the days of Noah, so it will be again at the coming of the Son of Man”?
