

Spirit-Filled Pastor Says, 'Jesus Is Winning Here'

This past week, many in a small village in South Asia heard the gospel for the first time in 20 years. Evangelists Caleb Wampler and Joshua Smith from Kingdom Encounters Ministries, both of whom administered the Good News to the multitudes, say Jesus is making a huge impact.

One example of God's intervention is what happened during Wampler and Smith's crusade. Wampler said 11 people were arrested during the event, but they were let go to come back and worship the Lord.

"I have good news for you," Wampler says. "All of the 11 were released in Jesus' name for fear of persecution and political pressure. They were actually let go because there were some Christian people in the government that were there and ready to get them out. It is quite busy and crazy, but Jesus is winning here."
