

Time to Get to Work: Christians Called to Step Up

Following President-elect Donald Trump's decisive victory over Vice President Kamala Harris, Todd Coconato Ministries has called on Christians to seize this moment to actively build the kingdom of God. In a recent statement, the ministry expresses gratitude to supporters for their "prayers, encouragement, and support" during a crucial period for the nation, noting that while a significant political victory has been achieved, "this is just the beginning—and now, it's time to roll up our sleeves and get to work."

Reflecting on the election's aftermath, the ministry emphasizes that the mission for Christians remains unchanged, regardless of who occupies the White House. "This is our biggest opportunity yet to reach a world in desperate need of truth and hope," the statement reads. As the nation faces division and moral drift, Coconato urges believers to "go into the field, making disciples and spreading the gospel of Jesus Christ."

In the wake of this political shift, the ministry views the current moment as a pivotal one for the church. "There is no room for complacency or apathy," the statement declares, calling on Christians to "press forward, standing firm on the Word of God and actively doing the work He has set before us!" The ministry's appeal underscores the responsibility of the church to make the most of this new season by turning America's heart back to God.

Additionally, Coconato Ministries calls for prayer, urging Christians to “pray against the enemy’s schemes, pray for strength and unity, and pray for a smooth and God-honoring transition in the coming months.” Specifically, they ask believers to pray that Trump will “assemble a righteous team that will lead our country with wisdom and faith,” fostering a nation that is “strong and godly once again.”

In this pivotal time, Todd Coconato Ministries reminds the faithful that the work of building God’s kingdom goes on. With the “spotlight on the church,” Christians must rise to the occasion, reaching out with truth and hope to restore America’s moral compass.
