

WATCH: 7 Real-Life Reasons Michelle Obama May Run in 2020

Rolling Stone magazine, the liberal, publication catching current cultural developments, has a cover story on the “Clown Car of Democratic Candidates.” Multitudes traditionally supporting the Democratic Party are troubled by the extremism and desperation in their political lineup.

Political observers are acknowledging that desperate situations require desperate solutions.

Even though the former First Lady says she is not interested in pursuing the presidency and preserving her husband’s legacy being dismantled dramatically by the Trump administration, we cannot dismiss the very real possibility that this “Most Admired Woman in the World” and author of her blockbuster 10 million bestseller memoir, “Becoming,” will respond to the bell and run in 2020.

Watch this brief and compelling video by cultural commentator Larry Tomczak giving you the inside scoop!