

WATCH: 'Female Moses' Follows Prophetic Dreams, Visions to Lead Slaves to Freedom

Harriet Tubman barely escaped slavery with her life in 1849. But her Christian convictions forced her to go back to Southern plantations and free hundreds of slaves over 19 expeditions.

Tubman often credited the success of her expeditions to dreams and visions she said God gave her. And she never lost a passenger.

Now a new action-packed film highlights Tubman's faith, courage and prophetic insight. Watch the trailer here.
