

WATCH: HARRY JACKSON Says Charisma Has ‘Held the Banner of Racial Reconciliation High’

Bishop Harry Jackson, who himself continues to fight hard for racial reconciliation within the church and beyond, lauds Charisma for “trumpeting the truth that we are one in Christ—black, white, Hispanic and Asian.”

“You have done an amazing job of reaching us with truth ... broadcasting, if you will, messages of life both in written and Internet form. You have given us insights as to what’s going on in the world of foreign missions. This international ministry has been followed in unique way and you’ve been a part of that. The area of racial reconciliation is one that you’ve held high as a banner of Christian unity for many years. ... You have helped the body of Christ coming into an even greater unity.”
