

WATCH: Hundreds Rush to Altar as Claudio Freidzon Calls Down Revival Fire at Jesus '19

Before Argentinian revivalist Claudio Freidzon could actually deliver an altar call, people from the crowds at Jesus '19 rushed to the altar.

The massive crowd at Jesus Image's 2019 conference in Orlando, Florida, raised their hands as Freidzon prayed and preached. Freidzon spoke at the conference's evening service last night, Dec. 29, the first day of the event. The conference will continue through Wednesday, Jan. 1.

The goal of Jesus '19, according to the ministry's founder, Michael Koulianos, is to "bring the fathers and mothers of the faith together with a rising group of voices" and allow this generation to "experience Jesus in a life-changing way."

At last night's service, after Jeremy Riddle and Steffany Gretzinger led worship, Freidzon offered hope to the spiritually hungry crowd.

"Lord, every church here, let them be filled with the power of God," he prayed. "This generation is passionate for more anointing, more power, more miracles. How many of you want more anointing, more power and more miracles? And for that God says, 'Do you want it?' Surrender, surrender your life. Seek God tonight. And a new ... breath of His Spirit [will move]."

Watch the full service in this article. Go to the 1:50:00 minute marker to hear Freidzon's sermon.