Lauren Daigle won the award for Best Contemporary Christian Music Album at the Grammy Awards on Sunday. During her acceptance speech, she said, "This record, I'll tell you, it just came out of a season of realizing we're just supposed to look up. With everything we do, we're supposed to have love. And I love that music gives us the opportunity to look up. It gives us the opportunity to spread love to the entire world. So I just want to thank Jesus for letting me be a part of this. That He's put a voice in my throat." Watch the video of her full acceptance speech here.
