

‘We’ll Never Be the Same’: God Imparts Miraculous Healing at Let Us Worship Event

From the balmy beaches of the San Francisco Bay to the sandy windswept sidewalks of West Palm Beach, Sean Feucht and his team of radical Jesus-worshippers have traveled from state to state over the last year with their Let Us Worship events.

What started out as a protest against the unconstitutional restrictions on houses of worship has grown into a nationwide movement, seeing healings, revival and salvations happening at each Spirit-filled event.

When unbelievers are least likely to step into a church to encounter Jesus, Feucht has said parks and other outdoor locations are the perfect place to meet them in a familiar and no-strings-attached environment.

The latest event in Fresno, California, shattered expectations, with attendees hungry for the Spirit throwing off earthly hindrances to seek the Lord with their whole hearts.

People ran down during worship throwing on stage anything holding them back from Jesus – cigarettes, vapes, beer, drugs...

Tony Kim, co-founder of Renaissance International, along with his wife, Jessica, led the portion of the event dedicated to praying for healing and miracles. Through words of knowledge, the Lord imparted to him healing power over many afflicted with injuries.

“There’s a person here that had a sports injury in your knee,” Kim said from the stage. “You had surgery, and God is touching you now.”

A woman broke from the crowd. With a joyful dance in her step, she shared her miraculous testimony.

“I’m the knee lady,” she said with a laugh. Watch how, after undergoing surgery with three pins left in her knee, the woman left the stage running and leaping for joy.
