

White House Press Secretary Says 'We're Asking for Transparency'

CBN's David Brody spoke with White House Press Secretary Kayleigh McEnany about the state of the election, which President Trump has yet to concede. The president and his team have vowed to continue fighting, launching several legal battles over ballots in key battleground states.

Watch the video here and read the full article from CBN News here.

Reprinted with permission from . Copyright The Christian Broadcasting Network, Inc., All rights reserved.