

Why Don't Desperate Christians Believe for Miracles?

Would you like to see daily miracles in your life? Why not?

If you believe for nothing in particular, you'll get nothing in particular.

According to prophetess and healing evangelist Becky Dvorak, you need to create an atmosphere for the miraculous—don't just hope for a miracle but believe in one. She wrote "The Prophetic & Healing Power of Your Words" to show people that the healing miracle that God wants to release to you may be just a word away.

According to Proverbs 18:21, we have the power of life and death in our words. "So, our words are either speaking life or they're speaking death over our bodies, our loved ones, our marriages, our finances, whatever the situation is," says Becky. "And we need to tap into the vocabulary of the Holy Spirit."

Using Your Dunamis Authority Against the Enemy

Many Christians are desperate, they're looking for someone that will believe with them and give them the steps on how to believe and how to access their miracle. With Jesus there is always, always hope. He has given us the steps in His Word to release those needed manifested miracles.

You can turn on the spigot of the Holy Spirit and prophesy health and healing over your body. According to the Word, we are not supposed to be speaking what we have (what's wrong), we are to call things that are not, as though they already were (health, finances, etc.).

Healing miracles are for today. Christians have a blood covenant with the Father, which includes healing. When you are given negative report, you don't have to receive everything that is spoken over you. Jesus already paid the price for our healing with His blood.

You need to speak promises to your problems. If you exercise that little mustard-seed of faith that we've all been given, it will move your mountain.
