

Why Research, Context Are Helpful in Understanding God's Word

Speaker Manouchka Charles from VOUS church in Miami says digging into the Word is crucial during these uncertain, fearful times of COVID-19. But doing research on what we read can further our understanding. is a helpful tool.

"I think it's more than just reading one verse," says Charles. "I think we want to read the context of the entire chapter, but then we also want to do some research. I think we have some great tools in this day and age to do the research that we need to find out a little bit more about God's Word. So my challenge to you in this season: Get into God's Word a little bit deeper."

To watch the entire video for more encouragement on growing spiritually amid quarantining, click here.