

Why This Major Christian Band Almost Retired for Good

After a busy year of touring, Tenth Avenue North faced a difficult choice: step down to be with their families or continue to serve God on the road. The band reminisces on that difficult decision in the official music video for "Control," a plea for God to take over.